4 groups of about 3 people to set up pick up stations a day prior or a couple of hours earlier.

Establish an efficient system for packing the items. Once we run out of a set of items, stop packing, take note of what needs to be purchased or donated to prepare for the next packing party.

More planning

No suggestions at this time...the event was excellent!

Maybe direct volunteers to pack the bags as if they were eating them. Some bags were packed with 2 small muffins as the breakfast items, a better option would've been one muffin and a pack of oatmeal. Same with snack items; 2 packs of fruit snacks instead of one fruit snack and one chip or fruit cup.

Sorors should use the signup to appropriately account for donations

We need to better prepared and organized for a large number of volunteers.

Label the tables to provide clarity on what items are designated for breakfast, snack and lunch.

We had a great turn out and was able to get a lot done really quickly. Running out of certain items couldn't be avoided. Keep up the great work!

Some sort of signage indicating what to pack from each row/table to appeal to visual learners.

Organize an assembly line for better efficiency packing the bags.

The turn out was great; I don't think it could have been any better

Consider doing quarterly.

A little more organization.

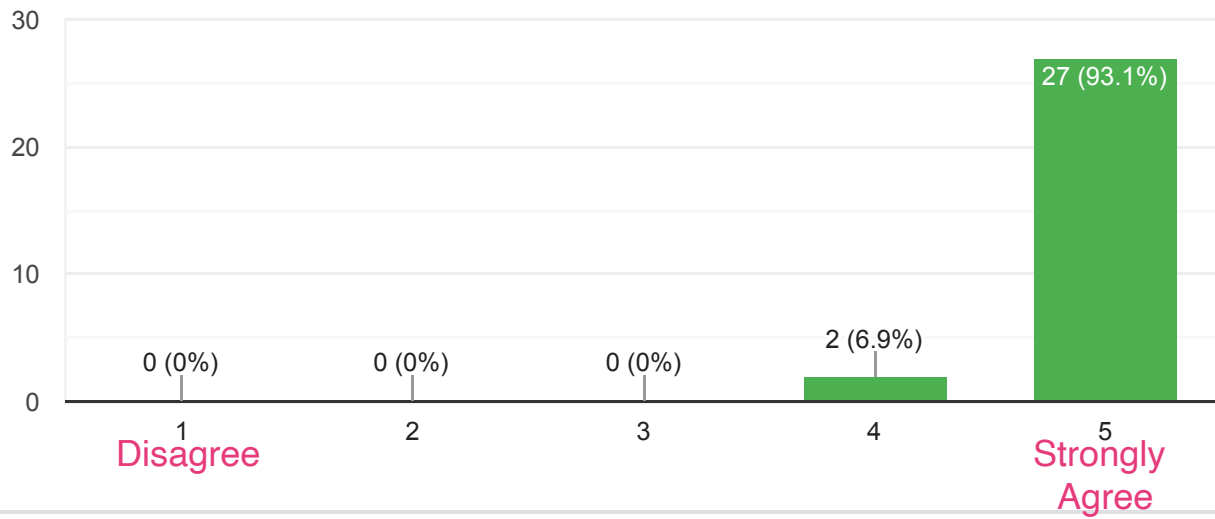

More lunch meals

Better projection of items needed

This event was enriching for the participants.

It was a great day of service and sisterhood!

I think it would be good if we could have volunteers for certain food items. I am planning to buy lunch items regularly since that seemed to run out the fastest.

Great service project, I enjoyed working with so many Sorors to exceed the packing goal.

Very good execution of program.

Great event. Great leadership. Great fellowship.
